You should be able to get the html source using chromium (first right click and then open in new tab, then File-> Page properties-> Download html). Then you can search the html source for the paragraph whose text value is "Računovodstvo knjiga". Ideally you can also get the html source from your main browser using the following method: 1. Save the source code as an html file. I will use it as mylist.html. 2. In your main browser, go to chrome://net-internals/#saved-page 3. In the json file, you will see the name of the html file you created earlier. Let's call it mylist.html. 4. Now, you have to open the saved html file in the main browser. 5. You are done. Now you should be able to search for the paragraph text. Short-term strong rate cuts and high inflation are rippling through Japan's financial markets. The yen, yen-denominated interest rates and the Japanese stock market were all lower in the wake of the BOJ's new easing measures, while the yield on the benchmark 10-year government bond fell to 1.72 percent. The BOJ earlier reduced its targeted interest rate to minus 0.1 percent and it has kept the same level of the overnight call rate at -0.1 percent until the end of March. The currency's weakness against the dollar is weakening overseas trading for Japan's exporters, as global
